Capital: Vilnius, 581,000 inhabitants
Language: Lithuanian
Government: Democratic republic

Lithuania, officially the Republic of Lithuania (Lithuanian: Lietuvos Respublika), is a country in Northern Europe. One of the three Baltic states, it is situated along the southeastern shore of the Baltic Sea, to the east of Sweden and Denmark. It is bordered by Latvia to the north, Belarus to the east and south, Poland to the south, and Kaliningrad Oblast (a Russian exclave) to the southwest. Lithuania is a member of the European Union, the Council of Europe, a full member of the Schengen Agreement and NATO. On 1 January 2015, Lithuania adopted the euro as the official currency and became the 19th member of the Eurozone.

Population and Religion

Lithuanians are one of the ethnic groups in the Baltic region. Lithuania has a population of about 2,718,352 people. According to the data from Eurostat, 66.1 percent of the population of Lithuania, aged 25 – 64, can speak two or more foreign languages, 31.5 percent can speak one foreign language, and a mere 2.5 percent of the population cannot speak any foreign languages. The foreign languages people speak the most are English and Russian. Lithuanians are sometimes called the northern Italians, referring to our warm sensual nature.

Lithuania became Christianised at the end of the 14th - beginning of the 15th century. Up until that time, it was a pagan country. Today, Roman Catholics represent the majority of the population. The Russian Orthodox Church, Protestants-Lutherans, Evangelical Christians Baptists, Islamic and Judaic religions are all represented in Lithuania. Believers of all religions are equal before the law.

Climate

The climate of Lithuania can be described as a typical European continental influenced climate with warm, dry summers and fairly severe winters. January is the coldest month with daytime temperatures usually around -5°C, but in some cases, winter months can be quite colder with temperatures far below zero, about -20°C or lower and strong, cold north-easterly winds. Heavy snowfall or even snowstorms are also possible on some days. The weather is often breezy and humid due to the proximity of the Baltic Sea.

In summer daytime temperatures reach 20-25°C, but sometimes quite higher, 30°C or more. In most of the time, it is dry weather with sunny spells, rain often falls with sometimes heavy Thunderstorms that can occur at the end of the day. July is the warmest month with an average Temperature of 18°C. Annual Precipitation is about 400-600 mm.

Generally, the weather is best May-September, when days are warm and the nights are cool, although it rains more in spring than in summer. Autumn and winter are usually a little chilly and wet, sometimes snowy and often foggy.

Language

The Lithuanian language (lietuvių kalba) is the official state language of Lithuania and is recognized as one of the official languages of the European Union. There are about 2.96 million native Lithuanian speakers in Lithuania and about 0.2 million abroad.

Lithuanian is a Baltic language, closely related to Latvian, although they are not mutually intelligible. It is written in an adapted version of the Roman script. Lithuanian is believed to be the linguistically most conservative living Indo-European tongue, retaining many features of Proto Indo-European. The only remaining live languages belonging to the Indo-European family of languages are Lithuanian and Latvian.

ECTS credit allocation policy (institutional credit framework)

What is ECTS?

ECTS is a learner-centred system for credit accumulation and transfer, based on the principle of transparency of the learning, teaching and assessment processes. Its objective is to facilitate the planning, delivery and evaluation of study programmes and student mobility by recognising learning achievements and qualifications and periods of learning.

The ECTS credits

ECTS credits express the volume of learning based on the defined learning outcomes and their associated workload. 60 ECTS credits are allocated to the learning outcomes and associated workload of a full-time academic year or its equivalent, which normally comprises a number of educational components to which credits (on the basis of the learning outcomes and workload) are allocated. ECTS credits are generally expressed in whole numbers.
